Santa Fe Society Notes

COMING INTO HIS OWN.

It was some time ago that Henry Christian Warrack, seeking health, worked on newspapers in Las Vegas, Santa Fe and Albuquerque. He did everything from reporting to editing, and between pulmonary hemorrhages he would write poetry. He tried hard to secure steady employment in New Mexico but New Mexico wasn't big enough to appreciate a genius. There wasn't as much as a $15 a week job to be had and Warrack after some very sad experiences in Santa Fe trekked for Yuma and thence to Los Angeles. There he came into his own as an editorial writer and dramatic critic on the Times. The beautiful things he has written about Southern California have netted that little colony of dollars in tourist, actors and investors. At the same time, he has added permanently to the literature of the Pacific coast, for some of his songs and stories are immortal. Warrack married recently and has recovered his health. A few days ago he addressed the Hollywood Women's club upon them and the drama touching briefly also upon Harry Goldsworthy, Swindberg, Bernard Shaw and different dramas, "Hamlet" and "The Master Builders," "What Is Man?" and "How Shall We Live?" were the main themes upon which he dwelt.

The appreciation shown lecturers and lectures in a place of culture like Hollywood was demonstrated by the attendance of several hundred society women, although the lecture was in the forenoon, and Hollywood is much larger than Albuquerque, similarly when Mrs. H. P. Davis, the managing editor of the Times, spoke on "The Coming Civilization," he had a big audience, while here in Santa Fe when Dr. Paul Rainin, on Thursday evening gave an intensely interesting lecture on a well advertised subject of scientific, as well as of popular and timely interest, "England and the English," only a handful of personal friends or to be exact, eight persons turned out, even though not a cent of admission was charged. The things of the spirit and of culture, naturally do not appeal to great masses, yet communities like Santa Fe and Albuquerque would add to their many attractions, if with these would be included whole-hearted appreciation of the gifts brought by men and women of culture.

NOTHIN' IN INSTANCES.

The applause given Miss Claude Allbright the past two weeks at Los Angeles, is another instance. When Miss Allbright sang recently in Santa Fe it was difficult to get an audience or even a date. At San Diego she sang to thousands upon thousands and the appreciation expressed in newspapers and elsewhere was of a character to delight any artist. In Los Angeles, the huge auditorium facing Central Park no evening held less than 2,000 to 3,000 people when she sang in La Traviata in La Boheme, in Madame Butterfly, Southern California has annexed Geraldine Ferrar, Madame Schumann-Heink, Maria, and now Elizabeth Allbright. In the "Love Letters of Hoffman" Miss Allbright sang "Niagara" in Madame Butterfly "Sunrise" but her greatest triumph was an "Ave Maria" in "La Traviata." On Sunday she sang in sacred concert the Times saying: "The only one who took notice of the programmed announcement particularly was Claude Allbright who sang 'The Lord Is My Shepherd.' She sang her sacred number with quiet reserve and fine enunciation and gave no encore Perfect Day, which struck its usual chord of sympathy in the audience."

SAME THING IN ART.

Judge William H. Pope on Tuesday evening was host to the session of the First Presbyterian church as well as to a number of other guests. After the transaction of business those present were invited to a fest by Mrs. Pope. The same evening, Miss Carroll entertained Judge McPhee's Sunday school class at her home on East Palace avenue.

ENTERTAINING CHURCH FOLKS.

Judge William H. Pope on Tuesday evening was host to the session of the First Presbyterian church as well as to a number of other guests. to step into the exhibit room as they passed, although some of the pictures were good and fine enough for places of honor at the San Diego exposition, for the homes of millionaire connoisseurs in New York, for the new Hotel Gramatan in the very center of the art colony in Bryn Mawr, for Minneapolis, for Denver, for other art centers. Strange to say, the love of the beautiful, is a matter of education, of show growth. Still, it gives greater exaltation and finer joy than any other pleasure within man's reach.

PICTURES BY RAWLES.

C. S. Rawles who has just returned as editor of the Eagle, has an exhibit several pictures lately painted by him. Oil is a new medium of expression with him, as until lately he was a water colorist. The pictures have been hung in the Camera club and are much admired. One is a landscape in the Santa Clara canyon at sunset.

ANOTHER EXHIBIT.

The Cassidy exhibit is going to Eaton, Colorado Springs, Denver and then east. It is succeeded by an exhibit of the latest pictures by Parsons, mostly autumn scenes. It seems that Parsons is happy in expressing the autumn mood of the season. It is true the landscape covers the blossoming orchards of spring, the lush greens of summer, the various aspects of winter in the southwest but it is the golden glow of the fall month as it is translated upon his canvases that arouses the greatest enthusiasms of the visitors to the Palace.

Artist after artist visiting Santa Fe, expresses delight in its atmosphere, quaintness and picturesqueness. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harwood of Paris, who sojourned several days in the capital, made arrangements to return in May, some time and will spend the summer here. "I am interested in what we call total color," said Boris Gordon, artist from Washington, D. C., "and certainly there is a lot of it in Santa Fe. There are subjects of great abundance and you have a wonderful light in which to paint. It makes everything luminous and gives to outside doors that peculiar charm which Italy possesses and which the Indians have infused into the paintings with a fine skill and feeling."

COMING SOCIAL EVENTS.

The annual charity ball under the auspices of the Woman's Board of Trade takes place this year on the evening of St. Valentine's day, February 14, and this being leap year, will be of especial brilliance. It had been set at first for February 22, Washington's birthday, but the Masons had pre-empted that date as far as that week, their reunion will take place and one of the social features to be a ball at the Scottish Rite Cathedral on the evening of February 22.

LECTURE BY K. M. CHAPMAN.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 p. m. at the Palace of Governors, K. M. Chapman will address the class in Archaeology of the Woman's club. His topic will be "Primitive Art," especially as it relates to the Cliff Dwellers near Santa Fe. He will speak of the marvelous cave drawings discovered by the Springer expedition.
